THE WALRUS FOUNDATION is a charitable non-profit with an educational mandate to support writers, artists, ideas, and debate on matters vital to Canadians. We rely on philanthropic gifts, grants, and sponsorships to fulfill this mandate. We are deeply grateful to the following individuals and organizations for their support in 2016.

The Walrus Foundation salutes community leaders who have made substantial multi-year commitments. We acknowledge with gratitude the following donors, who share our belief in provocative long-form journalism, innovative ideas, and continuing the national conversation. Their multi-year gifts allow us to plan and execute projects in an optimistic and open-minded manner, focusing on success rather than survival.

WE ARE GRATEFUL to the Chawker Foundation, Sandra & Jim Pitblado, Lucille & Urban Joseph, Maxine Granovsky Gluskin & Ira Gluskin, Donald Bainyard, and Seymour Schulich for their generous support of the Walrus Fellowship Program, which provides young professionals with real-world experience and training as part of our educational mandate.

Authoritative, well-researched journalism matters!

THE WALRUS EXISTS because readers like you send tax-deductible contributions. In 2017, we will need $2 million in donations to continue the same high-calibre work for which The Walrus is known. Please support journalism that matters by joining our community of supporters today! THEWALRUS.CA/DONATE
